STATE LAND OFFICE,
CARSON CITY, NEVADA.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE State of Nevada, and the Act of Congress approved June 16, 1890 (26 Stat. 387), has been in the land office at Carson City, Nevada, for the purpose of selecting and setting apart a portion of said land to the public for irrigation, and a portion thereof, by desert title, to the United States Land Office at Carson City, Nevada, for the purpose of all persons interested and the public generally.

Within the next sixty days following the date of this notice, protests and objections against the claim of said State of Nevada, and the sub-division described in the list on the ground that the same is more valuable for some other use than for irrigation purposes, will be received and noted by the Register and Receiver of the United States Land Office at Carson City, Nevada, for report to the General Land Office at Washington, D. C.

The following are the sub-divisions described, to-wit:
SW 1/4 of NW 1/4 and NW 1/4 of Sec. 10, T. 24 N., R. 18 E., M. D. B. & Co. v. A. PRATT, State Land Register of the State of Nevada. Dated of first insertion September 2, 1898.

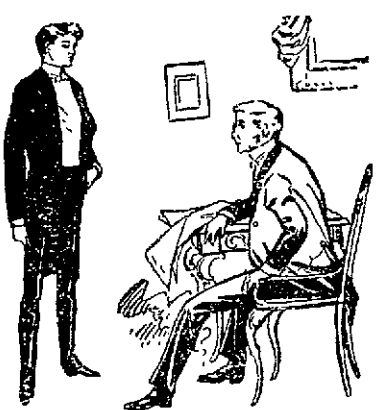

STOCKHOLDERS MEETING.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE annual meeting of the stockholders of the South-Western Cattle Company will be held at the office of the Secretary, Virginia Street below Second, on at 2 o'clock P. M. for the election of trustees and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting. A full attendance is desired.

J. B. WILLIAMS, Secretary.

When a young man asks a father for his daughter's hand in marriage, if the father is a wise one, he thinks of one thing, equally as important as the young man's morals, social and business standing and intelligence. A young man who suffers from ill-health has no right to marry until his health is restored. To do so is to commit a crime against the human race. While all diseases may not be directly inherited, the constitutional tendency to acquire them is inherited. If a man is a consumptive, the chances are that his children will have weak, under-sized lungs, and a predisposition to acquire the same disease.

A Complicated Case.

"Is Shippy good pay?"
"Well, if he is, Yanker, the dentist, is the meanest man on earth."

"How's that?"
"I was in Yanker's office when Shippy came to have a tooth pulled. Jaw all swollen out of shape. Awful looking face. Fairly howled with pain. But Yanker wouldn't pull the tooth without being paid in advance."

"Pretty tough on Shippy, wasn't it?"
"Oh, I don't know! He's a man of wonderful self command. Instead of kicking up a row he pulled out a check for $5, received $4 in change and smilingly ordered the doctor to go ahead with the torture."

"But was the check worth anything?"
"Good as gold when it was given, but Shippy reached the bank first and drew out his balance. Now he's telling around that Yanker pulled the wrong tooth and the dentist that there may be a suit for malpractice."

"Yanker will sue, of course?"
"Not he. The truth is that the dentist in his excitement drew two teeth at one hand, the extra one being marked by a big gold filling. Shippy misses that one, but what puzzles him is that his jaw is getting well and that he has no toothache. The dentist that filled his tooth was never paid, and the chances are that Shippy will drop the case as being too complicated."—Brooklyn Citizen.

Pussy in a Mirror Maze.

A strange cat strayed into the Crystal Maze the other night. Walking around between the mirrors, she saw her own reflection on all sides. She was not pleased. Her tail started to swell, and she rushed at the nearest cat, which advanced to meet her at the same rate of speed. With a shriek of defiance they met, and the ugly tempered feline fell back from a fearful bump against a mirror.

Up she jumped and looked around, only to see an array of abused cats staring at her. When she moved, 125 others moved also. With a mighty howl of disgust she turned and fled. Groups of cats greeted her everywhere as she dashed into mirrors and tried to climb the slippery surface of the glasses. In the course of a few minutes the animal ran through the exit of the Crystal Maze as if shot from a catapult. With two jumps she rushed to the street and disappeared in one of the adjacent houses, a very badly "rattled" cat.—Jacksonville Times-Union.

Railroad Methods.

The motive power department of a railway keeps an accurate double entry account with every locomotive and every car, so that the manager or master mechanic can tell in an instant how much it has cost to maintain and repair it, how many miles it has traveled and how many cars or tons it has hauled. A similar account is kept with every freight and passenger car. The Pullman company, for example, can tell you any morning the exact earnings of every sleeper or parlor car in service, how much each cost originally and how much has been expended in equipment, maintenance and repairs.—Chicago Record.

Enjoyable at a Distance.

"We would have had a pleasant evening if it had not been for one of the most insufferable little youngsters who was ever allowed to sit up late."

"Why, what was the matter with him?"

"Oh, he is one of those children that say the smart things that tickle us so much when we read about them in the newspapers and that drive us distracted when we have to listen to them!"—Chicago Post.

Faith in the Doctor.

An exchange quotes a story said to have been told at a "charity dinner." A man was brought into the accident hospital who was thought to be dead. His wife was with him. One of the doctors said, "He is dead," the man raised his head and said, "No, I'm not dead yet," whereupon his wife admonished him, saying, "Be quiet; the doctor ought to know best."

No Special.

"No special." With that remark to the assistant who took down the measurements the tailor dismissed his patron and said that the suit would be finished on a certain day.

"What did you mean by the saying 'no special' to your clerk?" asked the customer.

"Well, that means that you want your clothes made all right and with out any crink things about them. Pockets are the great specials."

"We have customers who want, beside the regular pockets, places in their waistcoats for pencils, eyeglasses and all sorts of things. Some pencil pockets are made to hold only one pencil and some for a bunch. Eyeglass pockets are also ordered in keeping with the shape and style of the glasses, and pockets for cigars are ordered for all sizes, from the little half pencil shape to the great big perfect."

"Break pockets, inside of other pockets, are also in demand, and chamote-lined pockets, which we usually make for the watch side of the waistcoat, are ordered often for trousers by men who carry silver trinkets in them."—Philadelphia Press.

To Have a Good Figure.

The plump woman who wears her hose supporters pinned to the front of her corsets seldom knows that the constant pulling of the elastic has a tendency to make her shoulders droop. Shoes of high heels and narrow toes are equally bad, for the wearer is plunged forward in a most ungraceful and line destroying attitude. The low heeled, square toed shoe that is now in vogue is the thing to wear, and blessed be the Lord for at last bringing womanhood to a rational understanding of what she should wear on her much abused little feet!

Tailor made gowns are serviceable as promoters of good figures, for usually unless one keeps one's shoulders back, the front of the bodice proceeds to lay wrinkles in itself and so spoil the good effect that women love as they do their pet jelly dishes and their Dresden tea-cups.—Fittsburg Dispatch.

Blind Tom's Mother.

The mother of Blind Tom is living in Columbus, Ga., with her daughter. All the neighbors call her "Aunt Charity." She is 85 years old, but is still bright and active and fond of telling to all who will listen the story of her nine years' travels with her son, the famous musician. Her great grievance now is that she cannot hear from him as often as she would like. She knows he made a fortune, and she knows somebody has it. Blind Tom is living at Highlands, N. J., "guarded like a prisoner," says "Aunt Charity." She never tires of telling of the first day when the little blind boy crept to old master's piano and played a tune. None of the other children—and there are 20 more of them—show any of his remarkable talent; but, then, they can see. Some days she cannot remember the names of all of her children, but Tom has always been her favorite.

Impudent Schoolboys.

Some years ago, at Winchester, a notice was put up that "Mr. So-and-so (one of the masters) will give a lecture on 'Our Eyes and How We See Through Them.'" Undersneath this some boy wrote, "Or our pupils and how they see through us."—London Chronicle.

A fine ostrich is calculated to yield $2,000 worth of feathers.

Mrs. Russell Sage's Book.

No more graceful or fitting tribute from pupil to a teacher, from one earnest woman to another whose beneficent influence has helped to mold and color her whole life, could possibly be thought of than that just paid by Mrs. Russell Sage to Mrs. Emma Willard, founder of the Troy seminary and pioneer in securing higher education for women, relates the New York Tribune. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh," and in the large quarto volume just published by Mrs. Russell Sage, with the collaboration of many "who at the roll call of the Emma Willard association have answered to their names with spontaneous tributes to their alma mater and its founder, Mrs. Emma Willard," there is crystallized a beautiful record of affection that witnesses to the far-reaching influence of Mrs. Willard's work. The compiling of the volume which bears the title "Emma Willard and Her Pupils; or, Fifty Years of Troy Female Seminary, 1822-1872," has been a herculean work, hardly possible, were it not a labor of love.

The largest part of the book is taken up with brief biographical sketches of the thousands of women who in days past sat at the feet of this feminine Gamahel, gaining from her teachings inspirations and ideals before unknown.

The volume is daintily bound in dark blue and gilt, and on the cover the coat of arms which was conferred in 1827 by King Richard III of England on an ancestor of the Willards.

Mrs. Astor's Trunk.

Man's ingenuity has at last provided woman with a trunk in which she can pack and ship her expensive gowns and hats with the certainty that they will arrive at their destination without being crumpled and crushed into shapelessness, says the New York World.

A number have been made for New York society women, among them Mrs. John Jacob Astor. They are expensive, costing from $65 to $100.

Inside the trunk is a sliding skeleton frame with crossbars and hooks, so that as many as 40 gowns may be placed in much the same manner as in an improved wardrobe. Each garment is held securely in place and cannot "mess up" with any other. The extreme height of the trunk makes it unnecessary to fold skirts, so that they cannot possibly be creased or wrinkled.

In some trunks there are compartments for hats as well as dresses. One style even is made for nothing but headgear. In one of these 30 or more hats and bonnets can be stowed away, shipped across the continent and returned without a feather injured. These trunks must either stand on end or lie flat downward. The sides are rounded so that if an unkind baggage snatcher tries to put it on its side it will by gravity alone roll over to the position it should have.

Same Cat.

First Judge (at cat show).—This is the finest one in its class. There can hardly be two opinions about that.

Second Judge (with tears).—It was that cat, or one exactly like it, that ate my pet pigeon last week. You will never get a prize by my vote, you mean, nasty animal!—Chicago Tribune.

The Bicycle in Law.

That the bicycle is not a "tool" or "apparatus" that belongs to the "trade" or "profession" of an architect and building superintendent is decided in Smith versus Horton (Tex. Civ. App., 46 S. W., 460), although it is deemed a useful and convenient mode of locomotion.—Case and Comment.

THE EAGAN MATTER.

The court martial found General Eagan guilty of conduct unbecoming an official and a gentleman. The punishment is dismissal from the army, but inasmuch as the President has the authority to set aside or lessen the punishment, it may be regarded as doubtful whether that punishment will be imposed upon Eagan. War Department officials had allowed it to become known that they did not expect Eagan to resume the duties of Commissary General. President McKinley's action on the Eagan verdict may determine whether Secretary Alger will remain in the Cabinet, although some think he will remain anyway, unless kicked out, in order to try to get even on General Miles. He is known to be pulling all the political wires within his reach for the purpose of endeavoring to make trouble for Miles, and the beef contractors are helping him. According to dispatches, there is a rumor at Washington that both Alger and Miles will be dismissed as a result of the War Investigating Committee, but the report will doubtless be held by McKinley until after Congress adjourns, as he fears the effect upon that body.

McGowan's bill to repeal the purity of elections law has been made a special order in the Assembly for to-day. As it is about the only restriction to bribery and bribe-taking on our statute, it is likely to pass both houses which gave majorities for Stewart. "No rogue ever felt the halter draw with good opinion of the law." Wipe out the obstructive statute by all means. Let us not assume a virtue if we have it not. The voting industry is about all we have left and it should be protected. Give the sack a chance at the polls as well as in the legislature. 'Rah for the liberty of the sack!

SENATOR COMINS has introduced a joint resolution relative to the election of United States Senators. We presume the resolution requests our Representative and instructs our Senators to vote for a constitutional amendment leaving the election of members of the upper house to a direct vote of the people. It should pass both the Senate and Assembly by unanimous vote.

CLARK, the Senator elect from Montana, is a thorough-going 18 to 1 Silver man, if he is a multi-millionaire. It is charged that he spent money corruptly to secure his election. Perhaps he did, but, thank Heaven, it was his own money and not that of a gold-bug corporation which will be likely to hamper him in pursuing a straightforward course on the coinage question.

A San Francisco paper says that Howard Wright, the bribe-taking Speaker of the California Assembly, will be "severely criticised" by the investigating committee. Well, that's an improvement on Nevada. With our investigating committees, bribery is evidently regarded as a Christian virtue and a bribe-taker a person deserving of the highest eulogism.

HOWARD WRIGHT has resigned from the California Assembly of which he was Speaker. His example might be gracefully followed by some of the Nevada legislators who still retain their seats. Judas Iscariot was a prince beside those fellows, for he had the decency to go off and hang himself after he had betrayed his master.

The vote of last Tuesday does not show that the Stewart forces were defeated at the polls last November.—Review.

No, it did not. That was shown in the election returns. The vote you speak of merely showed that a legislative majority represented the will of an unpopular minority.

The Tribune says Lovelock has eight saloons running in full blast and that the town certainly ought to support a newspaper. The Tribune editor should remember that while almost everybody pays for the whiskey he drinks, not one person in twenty pays a nickel toward the support of the newspaper he reads.

The assertion that $30,000 was paid one legislator for his influence in the Montana Senatorial fight, will have a tendency to convince some people that Nevada fails to appreciate the value of her law-makers.

Now that the S. P. has determined its ownership and quitted title to Nevada, we wonder what they are going to do with us to make us pay for our little rebellion? asks the Tasacora Times-Review.

The Appeal says Nevada can no longer be termed a "rotten borough." You are right. The stage of simple rottenness has passed and mortification has set in.

The country begins to realize that $20,000,000 was a pretty stiff price to pay for Aguinaldo.

Fruit trees are beginning to bud in Dayton. They are altogether too previous and will probably be "nipped in the bud."

The train robbers will not be arraigned until February 11th. They will be represented by Oregon attorneys.—Silver State.

An Interesting Case.

All people are interested in a new case that has recently cropped up in Reno, and they have good reason for being so. This case contains many striking features. It is Mr. F. P. Dann's show case on Virginia street, down by the iron bridge. It is very beautiful, his new window display of all that is modern in photography. There one may see large opalotypes, small autotypes and lovely porcelains. Just think! Artistic photographs on genuine porcelain. And what do you think of this? He makes photographs on handkerchiefs—silk handkerchiefs. What more appropriate present could be imagined than one of these with your photo on it?

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled upon my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four Doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and colds. I gave it a trial took eight bottles in all. It has cured me, and thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store. Regular size 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded.

A Good Old King.

The old Emperor William was announced to pay a visit to Baden-Baden, says a writer in Chambers' Journal, while I happened to be staying there in 1879. Shortly before his arrival he must have accomplished a feat in a railway carriage which a "change artist" at a music hall might have envied. Only a few minutes before the train actually stopped I had at a point on the line seen him in the costume of an old gentleman en voyage. When the station was reached, the kaiser stepped forth on the platform blazing in a magnificent and bejeweled uniform. A little later on the same day his majesty, once more in unofficial costume, was inspecting on foot the pretty things in the shops of the Baden kuraal, rather suggestive, as they are, of a section of the Paris Palais Royal.

Two peasants from the neighboring Black forest, evidently a young man and his sweetheart, wisely eyed some little object, timidly asked the price, and on hearing it almost tearfully turned away. The grand and kind old kaiser had noted it all. The peasant pair had just reached the exit from the enclosure when one of the people of the shop came up to them, placed a packet in their hands with some such words, murmured low, as, "By the will of the kaiser."—Chambers' Journal.

Friendship Versus Cash.

When "Our Mutual Friend" was published, a highly laudatory notice of the book appeared in a leading journal, which was written by Mr. X., an acquaintance of Dickens and a very clever man, who has been dead for many years. Mr. X. wrote to inform Dickens of the service which he had rendered him, and not only did he receive a grateful, not to say gushing, reply, but the author was so delighted with the timely lift which his book had been favored with that he presented the reviewer with the manuscript of the work, which Mr. X. afterward, it seems, sold for £250.

Anthony Trollope had a stormy discussion with Dickens at a London dinner party about the transaction, asserting with characteristic vehemence that Mr. X. was wrong to inform Dickens that he had written the review; that Dickens was much to blame for having taken any notice of his letter, and that the gift of the manuscript should neither have been offered nor accepted, as it was practically bribery and corruption.—Literature.

An Unfortunate Misapprehension.

A story of Lord Russell of Killowen, as told by himself, shows how risky a thing it may be, after all, for a prisoner to speak in his own defense. One such, who seemed to be really making out his innocence, the lord chief justice, who had missed a mumbled word, interrupted with the question, "What did you say—What was your last sentence?" "Three months, my lord," said the crestfallen prisoner pander. It is hardly necessary to add that the lord chief justice forgot the admission or remembered it only in the prisoner's favor when that particular sentence had to be passed.—London Academy.

An Antichrist View of Emporia.

Whenever a schoolteacher is needed in any part of the state of Kansas word is sent to Emporia, and the next train pulling out of that town carries a schoolteacher, with her notebooks, dictionaries, etc., in a bag at her side. Don't they raise anything else but schoolteachers in Emporia? Did any man ever go to that town and get a bride?

Old Bill White must have lots of nerve to run a paper in a town with so many schoolteachers to watch his grammar.—Antichrist Globe.

A Highly Intelligent Councilman. At a meeting of the town council of a North Lincolnshire town a question arose as to the advisability of consecrating a new portion of the cemetery. A member suggested that "it would be best to consecrate it, as he had had his back yard done with it and 'it wore well.'"—English Exchange.

Trinidad is perhaps the principal breeding place for sea birds in the south Atlantic. The deposit of guano is consequently great. There are traces of abundant extinct vegetation.

Keys of bronze and iron have been found in Greece and Italy dating from at least the seventh century before Christ.

"What will be the cost of the war?" asked Queen Augusta when French and Germans grew belligerent. "Only a Napoleon," replied Bismarck.

A Birding Chinese Oath.

We are accustomed to all manner of swearing—that is, of course, legal oath taking—in this country, but we do not recollect hearing of so queer a medium of attestation as a "guillotined black cockatoo." That is what the police of a country district in New South Wales had to provide the other day for a finicking Chinaman, who obstinately declined to swear on anything else. Headless fowls were brought, but in vain. Even a black swan, a luxury surely for a Chinese witness, was declined.

After many days a dead cockatoo of the required hue was discovered in a hat of one of the other "heathen," as they call the Celestials, who mulcted the officials 10 shillings for a fast decomposing bird. Then the solemn and peculiar oath was duly administered, when the difficult witness blandly declared that he knew nothing about the case and sat down smiling.—London Chronicle.

Revised Geography.

A correspondent reports an occurrence which took place at a night school. "Williams," asked the instructor, "which is the largest island in the world?"

"It's either Asia or Africa," replied the young man to whom the question was addressed.

"I am speaking of islands, Williams. Those are continents."

"I think not, sir," drawled Williams. "When the Suez canal was cut, it made islands of both of 'em, sir. Come to think of it, sir, the largest is Asia and Europe. It's all one piece of ground."—Youth's Companion.

His First Client.

In an address delivered at Hartford the Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale told the story of James Russell Lowell's first client as Lowell had told it to him. Lowell had hardly opened his law office when a stranger appeared. The young man, who had been called to the bar, took out his notebook, talked of other, and when he finally came to business found the stranger was a lawyer.

The Attraction To-Morrow Evening.

"Yon Yonson" has become a standard attraction. It will be seen here for the first time to-morrow evening at the Opera House with Mr. Ben Hendricks in the title role. Few American plays have met with the success achieved by this picturesque comedy, which gives such a graphic picture of life among the hardy lumbermen of the northwest. Its popularity seems to be an enduring character, for it has been before the public for five years, and, like that of Jefferson's "Rip" promises to continue indefinitely.

STATE LEGISLATURE

THE NINETEENTH SESSION.

Sixteenth Day—Dr. J. E. Stubbs Makes an Able Address in Behalf of the State University.

HOUSE.

Assembly met pursuant to adjournment, Mr. Speaker in the chair. Prayer by chaplain; journal read and approved.

Stroemer of Lyon gave notice of a bill fixing the boundaries of the several counties of the State.

Hancock of Lander gave notice of a bill to repeal or amend the present State mining law.

McGowan gave notice of a bill to regulate the practice of medicine in the State of Nevada.

The following bills were introduced:

A. B. No. 21, by McGowan—An act to provide for the propagation of quail. Committee on Agriculture.

This bill applies to these two counties alone and simply changes the payment of the judge's salary, so that Lincoln county will pay the greater portion and relieve White Pine, which is now paying considerably more than her share.

Taken from the general file:

A. B. No. 9, providing for an alias summons, was passed.

A. B. No. 6, fixing the salary of the Carson justice of the peace at $600 per annum, was passed.

A. B. No. 10, an act providing for State and county officials to hold office without fling bonds, was indefinitely postponed.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

S. B. No. 7, fixing the State tax levy at $1 on each $100 of taxable property was taken up and referred to the committee of the whole. There was considerable debate and Dr. Stubbs was invited to appear before the committee and explain that part of the distribution of the tax that applied to the University. He gave a thorough explanation and answered numerous questions. The bill was then reported back to the House favorably. In regular session, however, the debate was renewed and amendments suggested reducing the levy from one dollar to a lesser amount, but after a consideration of two hours the bill was passed as presented.

The House then adjourned.

the Assembly chamber was well attended, and he was listened to with great interest throughout. He spoke on the progress, development, present status and future prospects of the University in his usual concise, agreeable and easy style, answering all questions and giving any explanation asked. His address lasted for an hour and a half and was beneficial and effective throughout.

Sale of the Reno Reduction Works.

H. H. Beck informs us that yesterday he consummated a sale of the Reno Reduction Works to a syndicate of Boston parties, represented by Charles Williams, George Wallace and other capitalists of Boston, on terms satisfactory to all parties. The transfer is to be made in a few days, or as soon as the matter of detail can be arranged. It is understood that these eastern parties represent unlimited capital and intend to operate the reduction works here in connection with a group of mines they own near Oresana in Humboldt county.

The JOURNAL is pleased to learn that a sale has been made by Mr. Beck of his mill property. He was unfortunate in his venture without fault of his own. The demonetization of silver had its blighting effect on Mr. Beck's investment, and he, with thousands of others who were connected with industries dependent on silver mining, was crushed by the money power of Europe and their hired tools of America. No man in Washoe county has done more, nor so much, as H. H. Beck has done to give to Reno and Washoe county industries that required machinery and skilled labor to operate them, and it requires no prophet to foretell the probable outcome of his last mill effort when the mill has passed into hands with sufficient capital to connect it with mining properties that can be worked at a profit. Mr. Beck is entitled to the best wishes of our people for the risks he has taken in his own and others' behalf.

The Knights of Pythias Reception.

The Knights of Pythias gave their regular monthly reception in fraternity hall of the new Investment building last night, and all present had a most delightful time. The program had been arranged with taste and was well carried out. The first part consisted of recitations and music, rendered in a manner that elicited hearty applause. The first number was a piano solo by Miss Lachman, followed by a comic recitation by J. Walter McRaye, the talented elocutionist and impersonator now in Reno. Mr. McRaye responded to a hearty encore.

A period of dancing was succeeded by recitations from Mrs. S. Phelan, who has recognized ability in this line. More dancing followed, and the conclusion of which the party repaired to the dining hall, where the tables fairly groaned beneath the delicious load of edibles piled upon them. After dinner more merriment followed, and at 12 o'clock the guests reluctantly took their departure.

United in Wedlock.

Mr. Harry Holland of Wadsworth was married to Miss Maud Rathford of Winnemucca at the Riverside parlors yesterday evening, the Rev. F. Vernon Jones of the Congregational Church officiating. Mr. Holland is well known in Reno. He is a conductor on the S. P. railroad.

Mrs. Holland was one of Winnemucca's most popular belles. She has been connected with the public schools of that place as teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. Holland intend to make Wadsworth their home for which place they will depart on this evening's east-bound train. The JOURNAL extends congratulations.

STEWART'S HAND ORGAN.

It Grinds Another Lie Into the Ears of the People.

The Carson Appeal would have the people believe that their pride, the State University, is teaching the gold standard financial policy to the sturdy youths within its halls. It attacks Prof. R. Lewers, professor of Political Economy, for installing "gold bug" ideas into the minds of students in finance. In a short talk with the Professor yesterday he made the following statement:

"I was surprised at the uncalled for attack made upon me by the Appeal, but it cannot injure me in any way. It is my opinion that Senator Stewart must be growing old and childish. If it were otherwise I do not clearly see why he should make such a wild and violent charge against me without foundation. In regard to the manner in which I teach finance, I do not think a single student ever formed an opinion of my position on the question from my lectures in the class room, as I teach from a text book that presents the bimetallic policy in a clear and non-committal light. It is Foster's work on Political Economy, and is recognized by all schools and colleges throughout the Union as the best text procurable on the science. It is true that the author inclined toward the gold standard policy in his old age, but during the greater part of his life he was a firm adherent of bimetalism, and it was during this period that he wrote the book exhaustively presenting facts and theories as they are, without expressing his individual opinion on the subject in hand.

"I am in sympathy with the cause of silver and am very well known as a silver man. I see no ground for Stewart's fling at me unless it be the untenable one that the author of the impartial bimetallic text book I am using leaped toward the gold standard during the declining days of his life."

The Professor further excused Stewart's virulent attack on the ground that the late campaign had been too great a strain upon the old man's nerves, and he must needs give vent to his feelings.
